

I oppose the Consumer Bankers Association(CBA) challenge to Indiana's Telephone Privacy law. I receive a minimum of one unwanted call per day (usually 3-5) from banks about mortgages or credit card debt consolidation. I have no credit card debt and am not interested in a mortgage. These calls are annoying! They should not be allowed, and they should not leave 3 minute messages on my answering machine. It takes valuable space away from important messages. Please protect those of us who want privacy! At a minimum, any credit card company or bank should have to ask permission and have our signature's on file to be authorized to contact us for additonal "services." Thank you. Elizabeth Ginther
